One-year-old Brynleigh Pollett, 89-year-old Teodora Nagera, and Mayor Naheed Nenshi — in his official capacity — were among the first-time participants that helped Calgary's Sport Chek Mother's Day Run and Walk set all-time records Sunday.

"It was great to be out there," Nenshi said. "I only did the 5K, but I'm still a little sweaty, so sorry to all the people I'm taking pictures with."

Nagera didn't seem to mind as she posed for photos with the mayor at the finish line. The 89-year-old walked with a group from the Calgary Wil-drose Lions Club and said she felt energized after completing the course.

"I did the full five kilometres," Nagera said. "This is my first time."

At the other end of the age spectrum was little Brynleigh, who rode in her stroller most of the way but insisted on finishing the race on foot.

"When we got up to about the last kilometre, then she wasn't going to go in her stroller anymore," said her mom Aleisha Pollett. "So we walked for the rest."

Sunday's walk was the first for Pollett's whole family, including grandmother Tammy Beach.

"We've decided that next year, great-grandma can come in it, too," Beach said.

John Forzani founded Calgary's first Mother's Day Walk and Run in 1977 in honour of his mother, Audrey, who was the guest of honour at the annual events until her passing in April 2011.

Forzani was overwhelmed at the turnout at the 37th annual event.

"This event continues to amaze," he said. "We have record numbers this year — somewhere in the neighbourhood of 15,000. But I'm sure that there's a lot more because some people decide to go at the last minute and don't register."

Funds raised from this year's event in Calgary and its sister event in Edmonton will be used to purchase diagnostic equipment for children's hospitals and neonatal units.

Aleisha Pollett helps her daughter Brynleigh, 1, across the finish line outside Chinook Centre. It was the first Mother's Day Run and Walk for them, as well as for grandma Tammy Beach. ROBSON FLETCHER/METRO

Aldermen. Proposal calls for more expense reports

Calgary aldermen would be required to post their ward expenses four times a year in a standardized format on the city website under a new proposal to be debated this week.

"That's something I've been pushing for for a while," said Mayor Naheed Nenshi, chair of the city's priorities and finance committee, which will discuss the proposal at a meeting Tuesday.

"I've been doing it myself since I was elected and I'm happy that we're moving forward with it," Nenshi said.

The proposal calls for aldermen to publish, at minimum, the dates and descriptions of all expenses charged to their council members' budgets and to be "responsible for posting their disclosures quarterly on their office website or other public forum."

The move comes after freedom-of-information requests were issued for numerous councillors' expenses, many of whom then voluntarily published the information through a variety of means. Some tweeted their expense documents, others sent them directly to Metro for publication online.

The new policy would formalize the process and also break down the expenses by type and compare actual spending to budgeted spending — two things that didn't happen under the old recording method.

"It's good to set ourselves up for this sort of disclosure," said Ald. Richard Pootmans.

Petition backs dismissed ACAD prof

One week after he was fired from a city arts school, more than 500 people have signed an online petition to have the professor connected with a public poultry killing reinstated.

Gord Ferguson, former head of the Alberta College of Art and Design's sculpture department and 32-year veteran of the school, was relieved of his duties May 6, a few weeks after a student slaughtered a chicken in the school's cafeteria.

Now, more than 550 people have joined a petition that would see Ferguson back at work.

"We believe it is wrong to terminate an instructor and renowned artist who taught at the college for more than 30 years because of the independent actions of a student," reads the petition.

Reached at home Sunday, Ferguson said he's still not at liberty to discuss the matter surrounding his dismissal as it might compromise his position, but was pleased to learn of the success of the online petition.

"Obviously there's been lots of support for me," Ferguson said. "You can see that in the media, and that's encouraging."

Further details on Ferguson's situation are expected later this week.

Fire bans ordered in Calgary and area

Dry conditions.

Fire chief notes low humidity and strong, warm winds create an 'extreme level of fire risk'

ROBSON FLETCHER

robson.fletcher@metronews.ca

City and provincial officials are urging Calgarians to be extra cautious with anything that can ignite a blaze, as tinder-dry conditions and high winds have pushed the threat of wildfires to extreme levels in the city and in much of Alberta.

Calgary Fire Chief Bruce Burrell issued a Level 3 fire ban late Saturday night, which includes all open flames with the exception of internal household fireplaces and propane or natural-gas barbecues.

Meanwhile, the province issued fire bans for nearly the entire region surrounding Calgary and most of central Alberta and issued a special advisory.

"This is a rare occasion for us to actually be issuing this fire-weather advisory," said wildfire information officer Richard Horne.

"There's maybe only been three times in the last two or three years that this has happened."

In addition, residents of Nordegg and Lodgepole were ordered Sunday evening to evacuate their small communities in central Alberta due to the threat of encroaching wildfires.

"Most of the wildfires that we're seeing tend to be happening closer to communities," Horne said. He said most of the fires so far this season have been human-caused.

Blaze. Family unhurt, but now without home after fire on weekend

A Calgary family is without a home after a blaze broke out in the southwest late Saturday evening.

Firefighters were called to a home in the 3700 block of Richardson Way S.W. around 10:30 p.m. Saturday after receiving reports of a building fire.

According to fire officials, firefighters were met with thick black smoke coming from the front door of a multi-family unit. The fire was quickly brought under control.

kindness and generosity Albertans have shown us," West wrote on his blog.

It's not only the towns that have been lending a hand, however.

"Big trucks were passing us on the road and honking in support, pulling U-turns to hand us donations," wrote musician Nelly Furtado, who joined in on West's walk last Monday.

Also joining him was singer Tyler Shaw, as well as Aislinn Paul and Munro Chambers of Degraasi: The Next Generation.

Even with the outpouring of encouragement, the trek hasn't been easy on the walkers, says Julia Thomas, a publicist traveling with Spencer.

But that doesn't mean they're giving up.

"They're starting to get worn down a bit, but they're still in really good spirits," she said.

Spencer remains on schedule to finish his walk in Calgary on May 16.

Turkey says it won't be dragged into Syrian war

Twin car bombs.

Biggest incident of violence across border since start of crisis

Turkey's prime minister vowed Sunday his country won't be drawn into Syria's civil war, despite twin car bombings the government believes were carried out by a group of Turks with close ties to pro-government groups in Syria. The bombings left 46 people dead.

Syria has rejected allegations it was behind the attacks. But Turkish authorities said Sunday they had detained nine Turkish citizens with links to the Syrian intelligence agency in connection with the bombings in the border town of Reyhanli, a hub for Syrian refugees and rebels just across from Syria's Idlib province.

flown between Turkey and Syria, signalling a sharp escalation of already high tensions between the two former allies. But Prime Minister Recep Tayyip Erdogan suggested that Turkey would not be drawn militarily in retaliation.

Saturday's bombings, 15 minutes apart, damaged some 735 businesses and 120 apartments. It also wounded dozens of people, including 50 who remained hospitalized Sunday.

Former Marxist group

Authorities suspect the leader of a former Marxist group, Mirhac Ural, now believed to be based in Syria, may have revived his group and ordered the attack.

- The group, Acilciler, was one of many Marxist groups active in Turkey through the 1970s and 1980s, and was long-rumoured to have been formed by the Syrian intelligence agency. Many of its militants allegedly included ethnic Arab Turks belonging to a sect close to Syria's Alawites.

Turkey has firmly sided with the Syrian opposition, hosting its leaders along with rebel commanders and providing refuge to hundreds of thousands of Syrian refugees.

Sleepless in Israel. Critics restless over Netanyahu's $127K bed on 5-hour flight Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu will seek alternate sleeping arrangements when travelling after receiving a sky-high bill for installing a customized bed on a recent flight to London.

Netanyahu found himself facing a public uproar on Sunday after reports over the weekend that he had spent $127,000 US in public funds on a special sleeping cabin for the five-hour flight to attend Margaret Thatcher's funeral.

Netanyahu's office initially defended the decision, saying the prime minister had a busy schedule ahead of the flight and needed to be fresh for important meetings in Britain. But following public criticism, officials close to Netanyahu said late Saturday that he had been unaware of the cost, and once informed, he ordered the bed be cancelled on all future flights.

Earlier this year, Netanyahu stopped buying ice cream from his favourite Jerusalem parlour after an Israeli newspaper discovered his office was spending $2,700 US a year for the frozen treat.

Cleveland. Ariel Castro's brothers say they didn't know of kidnappings

Two brothers of the Cleveland kidnapping suspect say they fear people still believe they had something to do with the three missing women found in his home.

Onil and Pedro Castro told CNN that they've been getting death threats even after police decided not to charge them.

Pedro Castro says he would have turned in his brother

Ariel if he had known he was involved in the women's disappearance.

Ariel Castro is suspected of holding the women captive in his home for a decade. Authorities say he kidnapped all three, raped them and fathered a child with one. The women were found May 6th. The brothers were initially taken into custody then released. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gunfire turns parade into pandemonium

New Orleans shooting.

Cops say street violence, not terror, responsible for injuring at least 19

Can't run, can't hide

"We'll get them. We have good resources in this neighbourhood."

Police superintendent Ronal Serpas on the suspects in the shooting.

Gunmen opened fire on dozens of people marching in a neighbourhood Mother's Day parade in New Orleans on Sunday, wounding at least 19 people, police said.

The FBI said that the shooting appeared to be "street violence" and wasn't linked to terrorism.

Many of the victims were grazed and most of the wounds weren't life-threatening, according to a police news release. No deaths were reported by Sunday night.

The victims included 10 men, seven women, a boy and a girl.

The children, both 10 years old, were grazed and in good condition, but police said at least two people were in surgery Sunday night.

Mary Beth Romig, a spokeswoman for the FBI in New Orleans, said federal investigators have no indication that the shooting was an act of terrorism.

"It's strictly an act of street violence in New Orleans," she said.

Officers were interspersed with the marchers, which is routine for such events. As many as 400 people joined in the procession that stretched for about three blocks, though only half that many were in the immediate vicinity of the shooting, said Police Superintendent Ronal Serpas.

Police saw three suspects running from the scene in the city's 7th Ward neighbourhood. No arrests had been made as of Sunday night.

The neighbourhood where the shooting happened was a mix of low-income and middle-class row houses, some boarded up. As of last year, the neighbourhood's population was about 60 per cent of its pre-Hurricane Katrina level.

Police vowed to make swift arrests. Serpas said it wasn't clear if particular people in the second line were targeted, or if the shots were fired in a random fashion.

Illegal-downloading megasuits rear head north of the border

Anti-piracy battle.

Case involving Teksavvy, Voltage Pictures could pave way for U.S.-style actions on file-sharing Massive lawsuits targeting people who illegally download copyrighted content are common in the U.S., where people have been stuck with hefty fines and out-of-court settlements. Now there's an attempt to bring that to Canada.

At the centre of the effort is Canipre, the only anti-piracy enforcement firm that provides forensic services to copyright-holders in Canada.

The Montreal-based firm has been monitoring Canadian users' downloading of pirated content for several months. It has now gathered more than

U.S. precedent

- Such lawsuits have been common in the U.S. Between 200,000 and 250,000 people have been sued in the last two years, according to Internet civil-liberties group the Electronic Frontier Foundation.
- Canadian consumers don't risk such severe damages as in the U.S., because of a bill passed last year that modified the federal Copyright Act. Bill C-11 imposed a limit of $5,000 on damages awarded for non-commercial copyright infringement.

one million different evidence files, according to its managing director Barry Logan.

One of its clients is now before Federal Court in Toronto, requesting customer information for over 1,000 IP addresses — a user's unique Internet signature — collected by Canipre.

That client is the American studio Voltage Pictures, maker of hundreds of films including the Academy Award-winning Hurt Locker. On the other side of the case is Teksavvy, an Ontario-based Internet provider. The IP addresses flagged by Canipre link back to its users.

The case is set to resume next month. If the court orders Teksavvy to hand over customer info, it could be the beginning of a new chapter in the anti-piracy battle in Canada.

"We have a long list of clients waiting to go to court," said Logan, who estimates that about 100 different companies are paying close attention to the case. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Business to have bigger role in Arctic debates: Minister

Creating a bigger presence for industry at the world's premiere international forum on northern issues won't distract from its work on environmental problems, says the Conservative cabinet minister about to lead the group.

"Absolutely not," said Leona Aglukkaq, who will assume the chairmanship of the group of the eight nations that ring the North Pole starting on Wednesday.

"That research — the work of interest to all the Arctic regions — that will continue during our chairmanship."

Central to Aglukkaq's plans for her two-year term heading the Arctic Council is the creation of an Arctic business forum, which she described as a way for northerners and northern business to share ideas and solutions.

EVEN DRIFTERS NEED TO WORK

Last week I was laid off. Let go. 86'd. Skidded.

I joined the ranks of the fun-employed with mixed feelings and zero ill-will for the circumstances. But while Metro provides and compensates me with the means to communicate my thoughts once every few weeks, a guy still needs a Monday-to-Friday gig.

For the first time in 12 years I've found myself without gainful employment and the pressing need to get up, go to work and come back home at the end of the day.

It's not like a vacation, because during a vacation you know you have a job to go back to and you plan it in advance.

It feels like a piece of me is missing and it's really hard to shake.

I've started to wonder if we're hard-wired to the 9-5 grind. I find it impossible to relax during my sudden and unannounced sabbatical.

High Plains Drifter
James Callsen
calgary@metronews.ca

I can't sleep in. I feel like I have to be up and doing something to feel halfway useful.

I'm about as far as you can get from winning the lottery, but I can understand why the guy who hits the Lotto Max returns to the same job he's had for the past 20 years.

It's not because he's bored. It's to feel he has a purpose.

A lot has changed since the last time I hunted for a job. No more perusing the want ads in the newspaper. No more printing off stacks of resumés, mailing them or handing them out.

Now sites like LinkedIn have taken the job search to the next level. Resumés are emailed and job-posting websites are combed over every morning for new leads. Even social media seems to be a factor (as it seems to be in virtually everything in our lives).

Instead of calling up friends and asking them about work,

Looking for purpose

I feel like a piece of me is missing and it's really hard to shake.

one hopes that their tweets are seen by those who are in the position to turn their employment prospects around. "Hey, d'ya know anyone looking for work?" is typed more often than it is spoken.

Regardless of technological advancements in the quest for employment, the end game is the same.

And while the search methods and mediums are different, the same traditional ethics and values surrounding hard work, honesty and loyalty haven't changed. Which makes me think that as humans, we are built to work.

We just have to figure out which work provides both means and a purpose.

Happy birthday, Buddha!

AHN YOUNG-JOON/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's the journey, not the destination

A parade of Buddhists in Seoul, South Korea, carry lanterns to celebrate the upcoming birthday of Buddha during the Lotus Lantern Festival on Sunday.

Legend has it that Buddha was born to a royal Hindu family in what is now known as Nepal, and on the night he was conceived, his mother, Queen Maya, dreamed that a white elephant with six white tusks walked around her three times, then hit her and disappeared into her right side. When she became pregnant, Queen Maya set off for her father's kingdom to give birth, as was the tradition.

But Buddha was born along the journey in a garden beneath a sal tree.

DAILYMAIL.CO.UK/WITH FILES FROM THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

On a full moon

2,557

Although the exact date is unknown, scholars believe Buddha was born some 2,557 years ago. In Korea, his birthday is traditionally celebrated on the full moon in May.

The light in the dark

Across Asia, Buddha's birthday is celebrated with colourful parades. The lighting of a lotus-shaped lantern in Buddhism traditionally symbolizes a display of religious devotion, performing good deeds and lighting up the dark parts of the world that are filled with agony.

Across South Korea, many temples provide free meals and tea to all visitors. DAILYMAIL.CO.UK

Creative Thingers. Seniors' group crafts together cozy clothes for charity

News worth sharing

Media will always have to report on the tough stuff. But we know that Canada is full of compassionate people, inspiring projects and stories worth celebrating. Here's just one.

Talk about a stitch in time.

Without fail, every Thursday afternoon for 15 years, Betty Dimmer sits in her living room, knitting away, either alone or with fast-fingered friends.

It's more than just a hobby. Dimmer leads the Creative Thingers, a seniors' knitting group that crafts afghans, toques, scarves and more to donate to charity.

The group has 10 core members, though others join from time to time to help out.

Last year, the Creative Thingers donated more than 1,000 knitted items to organizations, including the Alberta Children's Hospital and the Calgary Drop-In & Rehab Centre. Though Dimmer has never met any of the recipients of her handiwork, she hopes her efforts brighten peoples' days.

"It's very rewarding work, to do something for some good," says Dimmer.

RE: Hockey Alberta to Ban Body Checking at Pee wee Level, published May 8

As players for the Calgary Saints Division 2 Pee wee Hockey Team, we disagree with the ban on checking in the Pee wee and Bantam age groups.

We are both 12-year-olds. If the ban on checking goes ahead, when we get to the Bantam level where checking is allowed, we will be playing against players who will have three years of playing with checking, while we will only have one year of experience. We will have forgotten how to check safely, and will be injured much more easily. Also, if you ban checking at this level only in Alberta, when we go out of province to play, we won't know how to take a check safely.

Instead of taking away checking completely, we think there should be a zero-tolerance policy on head-hunting, which means deliberately hitting another player in the head.

Checking makes the game more exciting for both players and spectators. It is an important part of the game of hockey — please don't take it away!

The way we watch television has changed rapidly over the last decade with the rise of the Internet. Today, all it takes is a smartphone to plug into your favourite program. Over the next few days, Metro takes a look at how television has shaped us, and where it might go next. Today, we take a look back, beginning in a time when the concept of television was an intellectual imagining.

METRO WORLD NEWS

The history of television

1900

Russian scientist Constantin Perskyi coins the word "television" in a paper at the World's Fair in Paris. Trading cards sold there predict colour TV and news radio in the year 2000.

1925

Russian-born Vladimir Zworykin patents the first television colour tube. First moving image transmitted.

1928

Television introduced in the United States, followed by Britain, Germany, France and the Soviet Union.

1947

U.S. news program Meet the Press launched. Harry Truman is first U.S. president to address the nation from White House via television. He asks for food for Europe.

1936

Berlin Olympics become the world's first televised sports event. The BBC introduces the world's first regular TV service: three hours per day.

1939

Television introduced in Japan and Italy. Regular TV broadcasts introduced in the United States.

1930

American inventor Charles Francis Jenkins broadcasts the first television commercial.

1951

Colour TV first introduced in the United States.

1952

U.S. morning TV program Today Show begins.

1954

Over half of U.S. households own a TV set.

1956

Elvis Presley appears on the Ed Sullivan Show.

1976

Sony introduces first home video recorder.

1971

U.S. sitcom All in the Family launched, possibly first to discuss homosexuality.

1969

Neil Armstrong and Buzz Aldrin (pictured) on the moon, watched by more than 700 million people.

1960

TV debate between John F. Kennedy and Richard Nixon decides U.S. election.

1980

The "Who Shot J.R.?" instalment of the soap opera Dallas becomes the most-watched TV program in U.S. history.

1983

The final episode of M*A*S*H becomes the most-watched television program in history.

1985

First Blockbuster video-rental store opens.

1989

The Simpsons premieres. Airing that same year: Seinfeld.

2011

NCIS is the most popular TV drama in the United States.

2010

3-D TV introduced.

Reality TV boom begins with shows like Big Brother and Who Wants to Be a Millionaire? Even bigger deal: The Sopranos premieres.

1999

TiVo, which allows users to record shows while skipping ads, launched.

1995

DVD player invented.

Jessica Alba reveals wild-child past during interview with her mom

Jessica Alba was something of a hard-drinking, car-stealing wild child, she admits to her mother during a sit-down with Entertainment Weekly. While reminiscing about the first boy she brought home as a preteen, Alba fesses up: "We accidentally drank Wild Turkey," she says. "How old was I with Santino? Eleven?" But that's not the only memory Alba has of her bad behaviour. "Remember when I used to steal the car and go to Jack in the Box?" she asks her mom. "We could go get food. Like, that was our activity! But I was, you know, 12."

Poehler and comedian Kroll said to be dating

Parks and Recreation star Amy Poehler is reportedly dating comedian Nick Kroll, her first dose of romance since splitting with husband Will Arnett last September, according to Us Weekly. "She was looking for a guy like him," a source says. "She wanted a comedian who 'gets' her." Kroll and Poehler have been friends for a while, with Kroll playing a recurring role on her sitcom since 2011.

scene@metronews.ca

This week in bridal fashion crimes. The colours for Mama June and Sugar Bear's wedding were camouflage, hot pink and orange while, much worse, Keira Knightley got married in a dress she'd worn back in 2009.

Researchers at the University of New South Wales find that men with beards are generally judged much more attractive than clean-shaven men.

That explains the surge in sales at Eddie's Go-To Goatee Emporium.

In Dubai, a fan jumps the stage to hug Justin Bieber. Didn't we tell you not to grow that wispy moustache, Justin? Hmmm?

Robert Pattinson has reportedly been hanging out with Katy Perry. Don't panic, Robsten fans, he just wanted to find out what it's like to look at someone who occasionally arranges her mouth into the facial configuration commonly known as a "smile." He's safely back home now.

Martha Stewart says she regrets she never tried talking up Paul Newman and Robert Redford and getting to know them when she regularly sold them pastries at a Connecticut bakery decades ago. Even the regrets of celebrities are so much better.

Shia LaBeouf hands out copies of his self-penned comic book to strangers. "Not again," says the local garbage collector.

Lindsay Lohan calls her 90-day rehab sentence "pointless." "That may be true for you," say the drivers of Los Angeles, "but at least it gives the rest of us a break from the endless terror."

To friend or not to friend Mom on Facebook?

Josh Knoller, a young professional in New York City, spent years refusing his mother's "friend request" on Facebook before, eventually, "caving in."

Today they have an agreement: she'll try not to make embarrassing comments, and he can delete them if she does.

One in three mothers are connected with their teens over Facebook, according to the social networking giant's review of how users self-identify.

With more than one billion Facebook users, that's a lot of mothers and kids keeping in touch through social media, says Fordham University communications professor Paul Levinson, author of New New Media. "Facebook has been a boon to family relationships," says Levinson.

Kelly McBride, an assistant professor of communications at LaSalle University in Philadelphia, says her students who "friend" their mothers keep their Facebook pages benign, using other social media like Instagram or Twitter for the racy stuff.

"They may be willing to 'friend' their mother, but when they do, they take down the drinking or partying or suggestive photographs," she says.

Meanwhile, parenting expert Susan Newman recommends that mothers wait until their children are independent adults before friending them.

Is three really more stressful?

New study. Weighing in on a report that claims three is the most stressful number of kids to have

IT'S ALL RELATIVE
Kathy Buckworth,
kathybuckworth.com

One of my favourite lines from The Simpsons is when Bart complains he is having the worst day of his life. "So far," responds his unsympathetic yet correctly predictive father Homer.

I liken that to a study by Today.com that suggests three is the most stressful number of children to have.

A mom of three explains that, versus two kids, the stress level increases when it comes to things like crossing the street. I would agree that getting three kids to do anything in tandem is harder than getting two kids to do it. But I have four kids, and to the best of my recollection, I don't recall sprouting an extra arm when that last child arrived.

Maybe for moms of three, three is the most stressful number of children for them to have ... so far.

The study indicates mothers of more than three kids, on average, described themselves as at a lower stress level than their triumvirate sisters.

It concludes that families with more than three children experience the Duggar Effect, referencing the TLC reality family with 19 children.

While I am 15 short of this number, I admit older kids can, on occasion, help younger kids. But does that really offset the stress of knowing you have more children to feed, clothe, potty train, change sheets for, teach how to drive, suffer through first dates with, explain birth control to and pay post-secondary education for? According to MoneySense.ca, the average cost of raising a child in Canada is almost $245,000. Adding this expense for each child doesn't raise your stress level? Really?

I'm not saying that three kids aren't stressful for a lot of people. It can be. Just like it is very stressful for some parents of one child, two, four, five, etc. I call it the Pitter Patter Principle. (The original Peter Principle I'm referencing states that people are promoted to a level of incompetency.)

One study claims that families with three kids have increased stress levels. ISTOCK

Perhaps those who are lucky enough to actively choose the number of children they have sometimes also reach beyond the level of what they would see as acceptable stress. They are not incompetent in this way, of course; they just learn when to stop.

So what comes first? The proverbial chicken or the fertilized egg? The stress of having kids or the stress level of the parents prior to having them? Since we can't give back the number of children we had past the third one to do a truly fair comparison (I may have tried), I guess we'll never know. KATHY BUCKWORTH IS AN AWARD WINNING WRITER. VISIT KATHYBUCKWORTH.COM OR FOLLOW KATHY ON TWITTER @KATHYBUCKWORTH.

Let Rover swim to safety rather than going in

Dogs' lungs have a higher capacity than humans'. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Watching as a beloved dog is swept out to sea is heart-wrenching. Doing nothing seems unthinkable. But experts say that is exactly what a dog owner should do: nothing.

"The human-animal bond is no joke. Most pet owners are very attached to their pets," says Dr. Lynn Miller, a veterinarian who runs an animal clinic north of San Francisco. "But you're not going to save your dog by risking your own life. It does your dog no favours in the end if he comes back and you're dead."

The average dog is a better swimmer than the average human. Dogs such as Labrador retrievers, German shepherds and pit bull terriers are built like boats, the vet says. Their heads are above water, they have a low centre of gravity, they have four legs for propulsion, their lungs have a higher capacity than a human's, their fur keeps them warm in cold water — and many have waterproof undercoats — and some dog breeds have webbed feet.

Using their namesake swim stroke, dogs can find their way back to shore using currents and their fight-or-flight instinct, Miller says.

Dogs are single-minded, and focus on finding safety, while humans panic or become distracted, Miller says. Owners who try to make a rescue also may go into shock from the cold water, try to fight the current and get tumbled around or tire easily, she says.

People also don't think about what will happen if they do follow a dog and manage to reach it alive, Miller says.

Instead of the typical white-flour pizza crust, try this linguine pasta crust, which has more fibre and nutrients, and goat cheese that goes so well with the seafood.

1. Preheat oven to 350 F. Cook pasta in boiling water according to package instructions or until firm to the bite. Drain and place in mixing bowl. Add egg, milk and Parmesan cheese. Mix well. Pour into pan and bake 20 minutes.

2. In non-stick skillet sprayed with vegetable spray, sauté seafood just until cooked, approximately 3 minutes. Drain and set aside.

Chili's Quesadilla Explosion Salad with balsamic dressing

1,300 calories/86 g fat/ 2,470 mg sodium

You have an entire day's worth of calories and fat and two days' worth of sodium.

Equivalent

One Quesadilla Explosion Salad from Chili's is equivalent in sodium to 10 bags (250 g each) of Doritos chips. The excess cheese, quesadilla cheese wedges and dressing are the culprits.

Chili's Caribbean Salad including grilled chicken

All the fresh fruit and vegetables make this a much healthier salad.

Pulled Chicken sandwich gets Caesar Salad touch

With temperatures getting

Ingredients

- 1 500 ml jar of your favourite barbecue sauce
- 4 boneless, skinless chicken breasts
- 1 ET TU Caesar Original Salad Kit
- 1 head of fresh romaine or 2 romaine hearts
- 6-8 kaiser rolls or hamburger buns warmer, we'd rather be soaking up the heat than cooking in it.

Although slow cookers are known for their ability to prepare soups, chilies and hot comfort foods through the winter, savvy Canadian families are finding that slow-cooker meals in the spring offer them more time to enjoy the season instead of spending it inside worrying about dinner.

One of these great recipes is the Pulled Chicken Caesar Salad Sandwich.

1. Pour 1/2 of the barbecue sauce into the bottom of your slow cooker.

2. Layer chicken pieces into bottom of slow cooker and pour remaining barbecue sauce over your chicken. Cook on low for 6 hours.

3. Once cooked, remove chicken from slow cooker, place on a cutting board and, using two forks, pull chicken into shreds.

4. Place chicken back in cooker, stirring until mixture is evenly coated. Cover and cook for approximately 30 minutes to absorb more liquid.

5. While chicken mixture is simmering, create your caesar salad using an ET TU Caesar Original Salad Kit. Prepare salad according to package directions.

6. Once ready, place chicken, topped with caesar salad mixture, on buns.

Research reveals that students who take on jobs in high school more likely to succeed

According to a study published by Drexel University's Center for Labour Markets and Policy, teens who spend some time bagging groceries or cyphoning fries into happy meals have a larger shot at success throughout their career.

Paul Harrington, a Drexel University labour economist and lead author of the study, says that work experience in a formal job during high school (from ages 16 to 19) correspond to a 20 to 25 per cent increase in salary for teens almost a decade later. In this case, a "formal" job means a gig in food service or retail for a larger company, as opposed to work like babysitting or cutting the neighbor's grass. High school students who work, he says, are also more likely to have a job a decade after high school than their peers. The numbers are even stronger for teen boys, Harrington says.

"I think there's a dignity in work," Harrington says. "It's really important for people to understand how they contribute to making an organization function. The way you understand how that works is by doing it."

The other piece of data that the study revealed is that attendance in high school is a very strong indicator of good things to come. Harrington says that having high daily attendance in school means that students have a much higher chance of graduating from college.

"Woody Allen said 90 per cent of life is showing up," Harrington says. "Turns out he was right."

Frown-worthy findings

So what's the bad news?

The Drexel University study also found that as the economy has suffered, jobs for teens have become more difficult to come by. In the Metro Philadelphia area, for example, the study revealed that in 2000, about 44 per cent of teens between the ages of 16 and 19 had jobs. Today, that number has fallen to 25 per cent, mostly due to the lack of employment opportunities, and also to the fact that older workers are holding onto jobs longer than they have in previous decades.

Bringing business to your own backyard

Welcome to my world. If you're psyched about your own surroundings, why not consider becoming a tour guide?

Even after 16 years as a tour guide, Josh Silver still breaks out in an irrepressible ear-to-ear grin when he discusses the history of Philadelphia.

He started in 1997 as a part-time guide at Clifton House — a historical home just outside of Philadelphia — and discovered he was a natural. Silver has an affinity for local history, combined with a habit of describing events and artifacts with strict precision: "My friend calls it my bow-tie way of talking," he says with a laugh.

"The challenge for me is staying fresh. And that takes a lot of self-generated motivation," explains Silver. "After a while you have a lot of material to lean on, but you've got to push yourself to keep learning and incorporating new things." Silver has worked for almost every tour-guiding company in the city, and currently rotates between two small for-profit companies and one non-profit.

"It can be an excellent way to get some supplemental income with something that's always challenging and keeps you learning," says Silver. "But if you want to do it, I think the first step is coming out of your shell. There are monthly meetings of tour guides. There are tours offered every day. Get out there and start talking to people, because that's a big requirement for the job."

The Leafs, making their return to the post-season for the first time since 2004, became the 48th team in Stanley Cup history to rally from a 3-1 deficit to force Game 7. The only time Toronto has come back from a 3-1 deficit to win a series was the 1942 Stanley Cup final against the Detroit Red Wings, when the Leafs trailed 3-0 before reeling off four straight wins.

On Sunday, the Bruins started well but couldn't beat James Reimer, and the Leafs took over the game as it wore on.

Boston coach Claude Julien was critical of his team's puck management and decision-making.

Horoscopes

Aries

March 21 - April 20

Make an effort to see yourself the way others see you today. It's great that you have such a strong self-image but sometimes it makes it hard to understand why not everyone looks at life the same way.

Taurus

April 21 - May 21

The methods you have been using may be effective for you but that does not mean they are right for everyone. You will find yourself at odds with someone you work with today.

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

Your heart and your head are pulling you in opposite directions and it won't be until later in the week that you choose one approach over the other.

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

Keep your wits about you as the new week begins and try to maintain a light-hearted attitude to everything that happens. Some people may be feeling a bit down but that does not mean you have to get down there with them.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

The best way to deal with people who annoy you is to ignore them. There is something imperious in the Leo nature and if you make out that someone does not exist no one else will believe they exist either.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

It may be tempting to sell off a treasured possession so you can pay an outstanding debt but that's not a good idea.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

The cosmic pattern is slowly but surely shifting in your favor and by the end of the week the dark days will be behind you. Today you will have to deal with an emotional issue of some kind.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

You will have to make a difficult decision either today or tomorrow and some people are sure to be disappointed. That's not your concern. The only thing that matters is you stay true to your principles.

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

You may be easygoing by nature but when aroused you make a tenacious opponent. Today's events will encourage you to stand up for those who cannot stand up for themselves. With you on their side they might just win.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

You may worry that if you don't act quickly you will miss out on an opportunity of some kind but it isn't true. In fact the planets indicate most strongly that you should bide your time.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

If you have to be critical of someone today, either at home or at work, make sure you wrap up what you say in some kind of sugar coating. Not everyone has such a robust ego as you.

Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

Throwing money at a problem won't get you anywhere. If you stand back from your current situation a bit you will see it's not nearly as bad as you fear. It never is. SALLY BROMPTON
